

D.J. Verret, MD

Texas

I was in 4th grade at the time and doing some research in the school library. The librarian had a television in her office and she let us watch the space shuttle take off. I was actually working on an Apple IIe computer at the time and still remember the layout of the room to this day.